I think this is a good class and covers a lot of material, but is not too hard for the students.
The course was very informative and the slides were well laid out. I do wish that there were more connections to real world scenarios, I think that would make some topics easier to understand.
This course has helped me pursue further passions and has helped me gain necessary skills. It is a pass/fail course, so it is stress-free; however, on another note, since it is pass/fail, at times the effort I put in does feel useless.
I really liked the material taught in this course and felt it was a good introduction to Stats within Econ.
workload was completely fair amount
I thought the material was useful, it was a little boring at times but the prof. made up for it.
The course itself is mundane and not very exciting due to the introductory aspect and the basicness of it. But you do learn a lot, and it does help you feel prepared for later courses.
The work load wasn't overwhelming and you were still able to learn the material. With that being said the lectures can sometimes not directly line up with the assignments.
There is not too much material in the class and it usually connects
The strengths of this course is assesment, we are quizzed weekly and are forced to know the material, the weakness is its too lecture heavy in y opinion although i know econ is always lecture heavy Strengths would be a lot of math that is useful for an econ major. A weakness is we did not deal much real life problems.
A strength of the course is that there is a doable amount of work for the length of the course. A weakness of the course is that there is a only limited amount of time within the course to explore the topics.
I feel I learned a lot that will help me in my future with Econ. A weakness could be that the class being pass fail for everyone makes the effort of the class feel less than other courses.
The course definitely increased my knowledge for ECON math.
My weakness in the course was practicing what I could improve on
The lack of student participation was disappointing but that is no fault of Prof. Porter; he is excellent and passionate. I guess the kids in the class are just soulless.
This course is very compact which could function as a strength or weakness and should be offered in both quarter and semester format.
Really helped me to think outside of the box and think for myself. I think it helps you grow as a person while learning to articulate your thoughts very precisely and carefully.

I really liked the class overall but sometimes the lectures were a little hard to follow due to the fast pace.
The teaching was very clear and informative. Prof. Porter gives use lots of opportunities to ask and answer questions. I do wish that there was more class engagement.
Porter is extremely helpful, will always make sure we understand the concept before moving on, and has many example problems to explain further. Unfortunately doesn't have many practice problems. I believe that would be extremely helpful, but I also failed to ask for them, so maybe it does.
Professor Porter is a really good at teaching the material and making sure everyone understands before moving on to the next subject. He is also great at being available outside of class for additional questions.
slightly hard to follow at times but overall useful
Teaching was good, got confused at times, but overall good.
Always engaging the students, always available for help outside and inside of class, welcomes questions and wants you to do well. Overall, very good teacher
Very accessible and flexible professor. No weaknesses
He is a great teacher and always is there to help but his lectures are so boring that they are hard to pay attention to Strenghts are that he is avalaivle for help and weakness is sometimes its too fast a strength would be he did a great job explaining the work. a weakness could be he moved fairly fast through the topics.
A strength of the teaching of the course was that the professor was very knowledgeable about the topics. A weakness of the teaching is that the professor had some trouble controlling the class.
I think the teaching was good and he explained things that were tricky multiple times to clarify and in multiple ways. I have no complaints.
Some lectures were confusing, but Professor Porter is super nice and understanding.
My weaknesses were following along in class due to the speed of instruction.
Our professor was very engaging and engaged with the content well.
Teaching was awesome, one of the most engaging classes I've taken so far and definitely makes you excited to come in every time. Equal treatment and if you go out of your way you are rewarded. Great style of teaching and I hope more classes are like these.
